Foreword

The 1966 Echo staff has looked over the past year at Bedford High School. This is what we've seen.

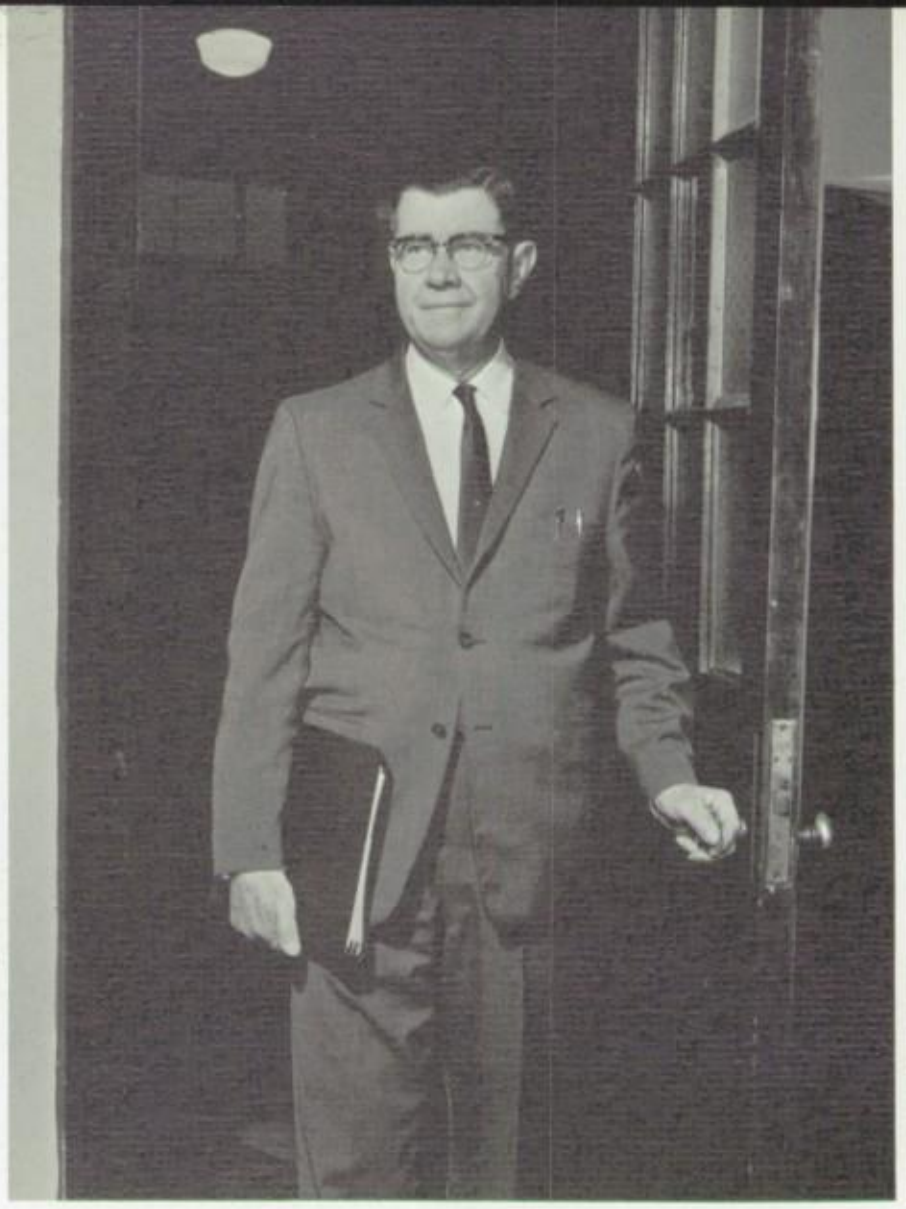
We've seen our dedicated teachers trying to teach us a part of what we must know to make our way in the world.

We've seen young, eager faces striving to find out what education is all about and what they want to do with their lives.

We've seen football and basketball games, where sometimes we came home happy and sometimes sad.

We've seen our many clubs and other organizations where the members thought it worth much time and effort to work toward a common goal.

We've liked what we have seen, so we, the Echo staff, invite you to look back, too. We think you'll like what you see.



Dedication

It is an honor to pay tribute to one who has become such a genuine part of Bedford High School. His interest in his students and his dedication to his task of teaching have made an impression upon all who have come under his influence. Because he means so much to so many, we the students of B.H.S. dedicate the 1966 Echo to

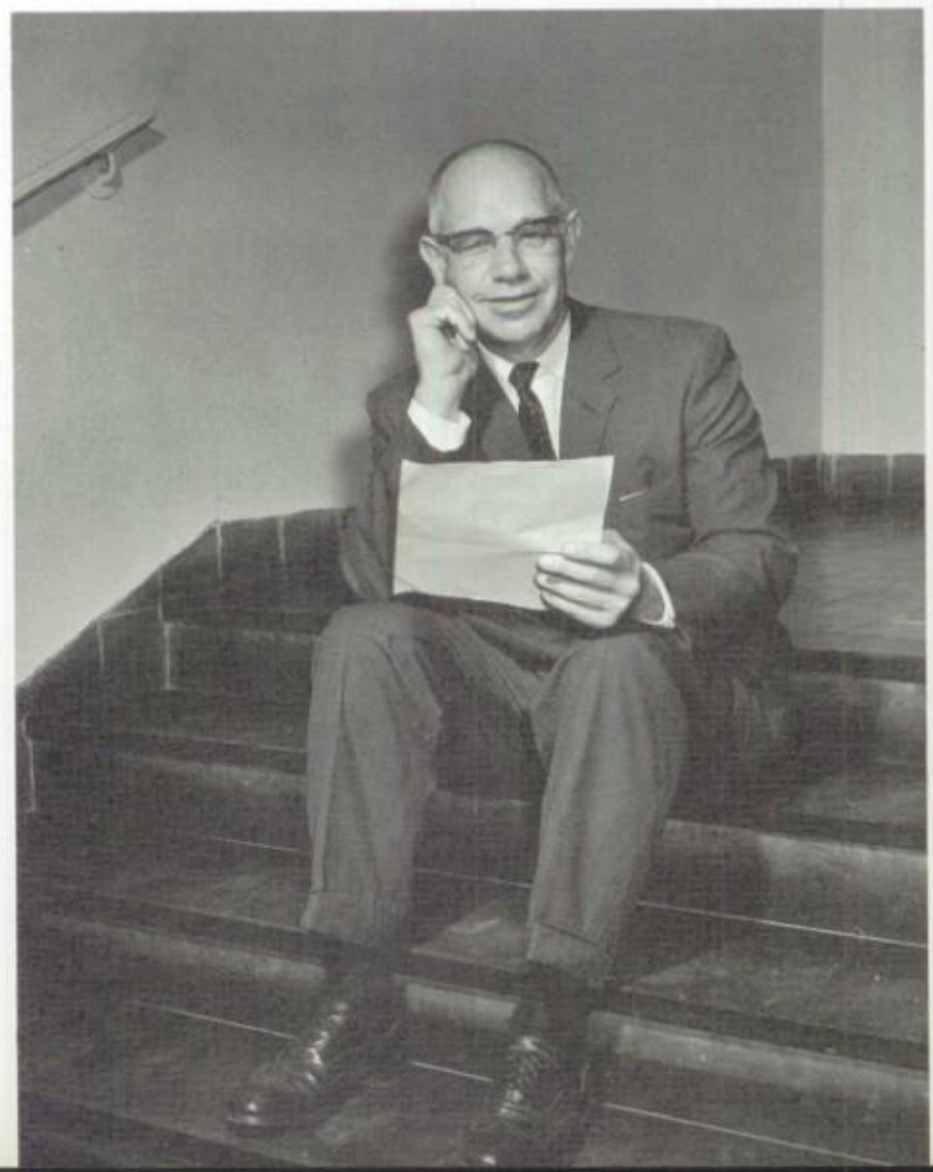
Our Superintendent

Mr. ROBERT DAVIS, Supervising Principal of the Bedford Joint School System, has with the aid of the school board led in the admirable progress of our schools. His sincere interest in the student body and his excellent executive ability are evident to everyone.

Our Principal . . . a man who is dedicated

To Mr. Townsend, who has come through the doors at dawn and often stayed until long after dark, working hard that we might have the best, we say, "Thank you".

ARTHUR V. TOWNSEND
Principal



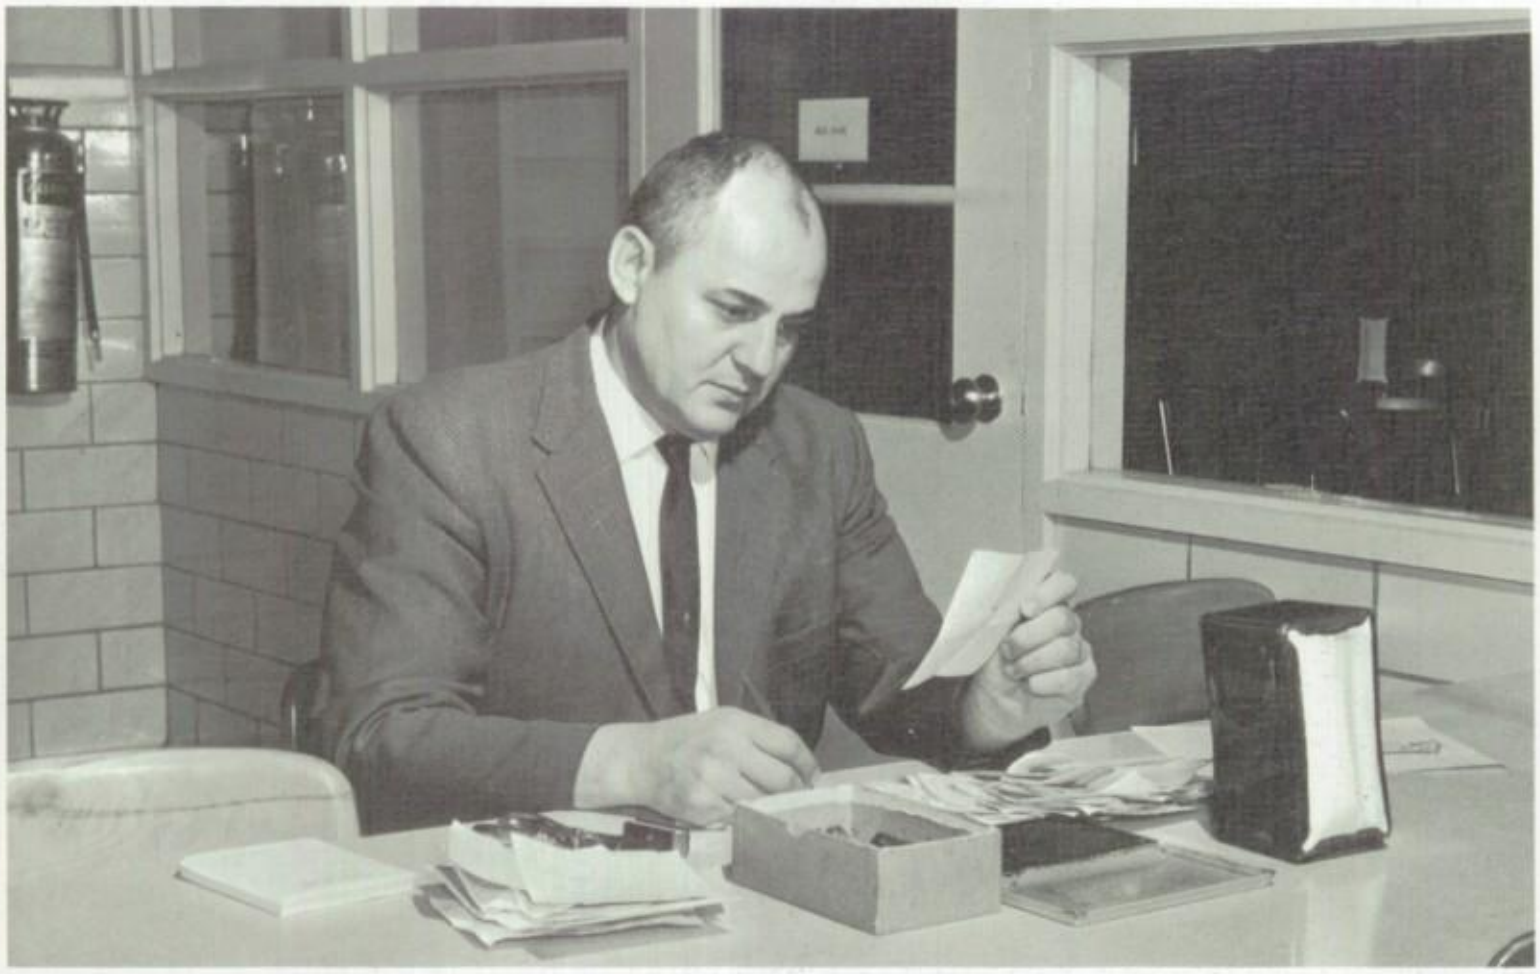
May 31, 1966, will be a day which each member of the class of 1966 will remember. The exact date will soon be forgotten, but the occasion will never be forgotten.

Your graduation from Bedford High School marks the commencement of another phase of your life. You have reached the time that you must assume increasing responsibility for yourself and your own affairs.

Bedford High School has offered you a program of instruction which will adequately prepare each of you for this responsibility. It is my hope that each of you has made the best use of the opportunities which you have been offered; so that, you can live a happy life and contribute to the betterment of our society.

ARTHUR V. TOWNSEND

Assistant Principal



EDWARD J. BROWN

It is his job to discuss, inform, council and advise. As our guidance counselor, he is a major influence in shaping our futures.

PAUL MOWRY

Elementary Supervisor . . .

Mr. Mowry has the large responsibility of all Bedford School District children under the age of thirteen. His authority covers a large area and it is a major job to correlate the activities of the six elementary schools. The smooth operation of these institutions shows the efficiency with which Mr. Mowry executes his job.

Mrs. Wilson takes care of the large amount of paper work and correspondence which is attached to the office of Elementary Supervisor.

DEPARTMENTS

From verbs and nouns to the juxtaposition of the porter to Macbeth and the influence of Mark Twain on the literature of our country our English education progresses from the raw elements of proper grammar to the fine details and comprehension of advanced critical essays. Through our various English courses and the recent additions of Literature, the student is exposed to a variety of teachers, viewpoints, and courses of study.

English is a necessity of life. Without it no one can express his needs, his desires, or his feelings. One cannot communicate with the world around him, neither can he understand many of the more intangible elements of his life without complete comprehension of material concerning it. The basic foundation for opening the door to this world is built by our English department in its constant struggle to give us the building blocks upon which to support our outlook.

English the basic foundation for open ing the doors to the future.

Social Studies

The world is getting smaller and smaller. As our neighbors become closer, the need for knowledge of them, their cultures, and their societies becomes greater. This is the job of our social studies department. It is their job to acquaint us with the geography of the land, its exports and how they affect us, the religious beliefs of the inhabitants, the social customs, the governmental make-compares the old and new.

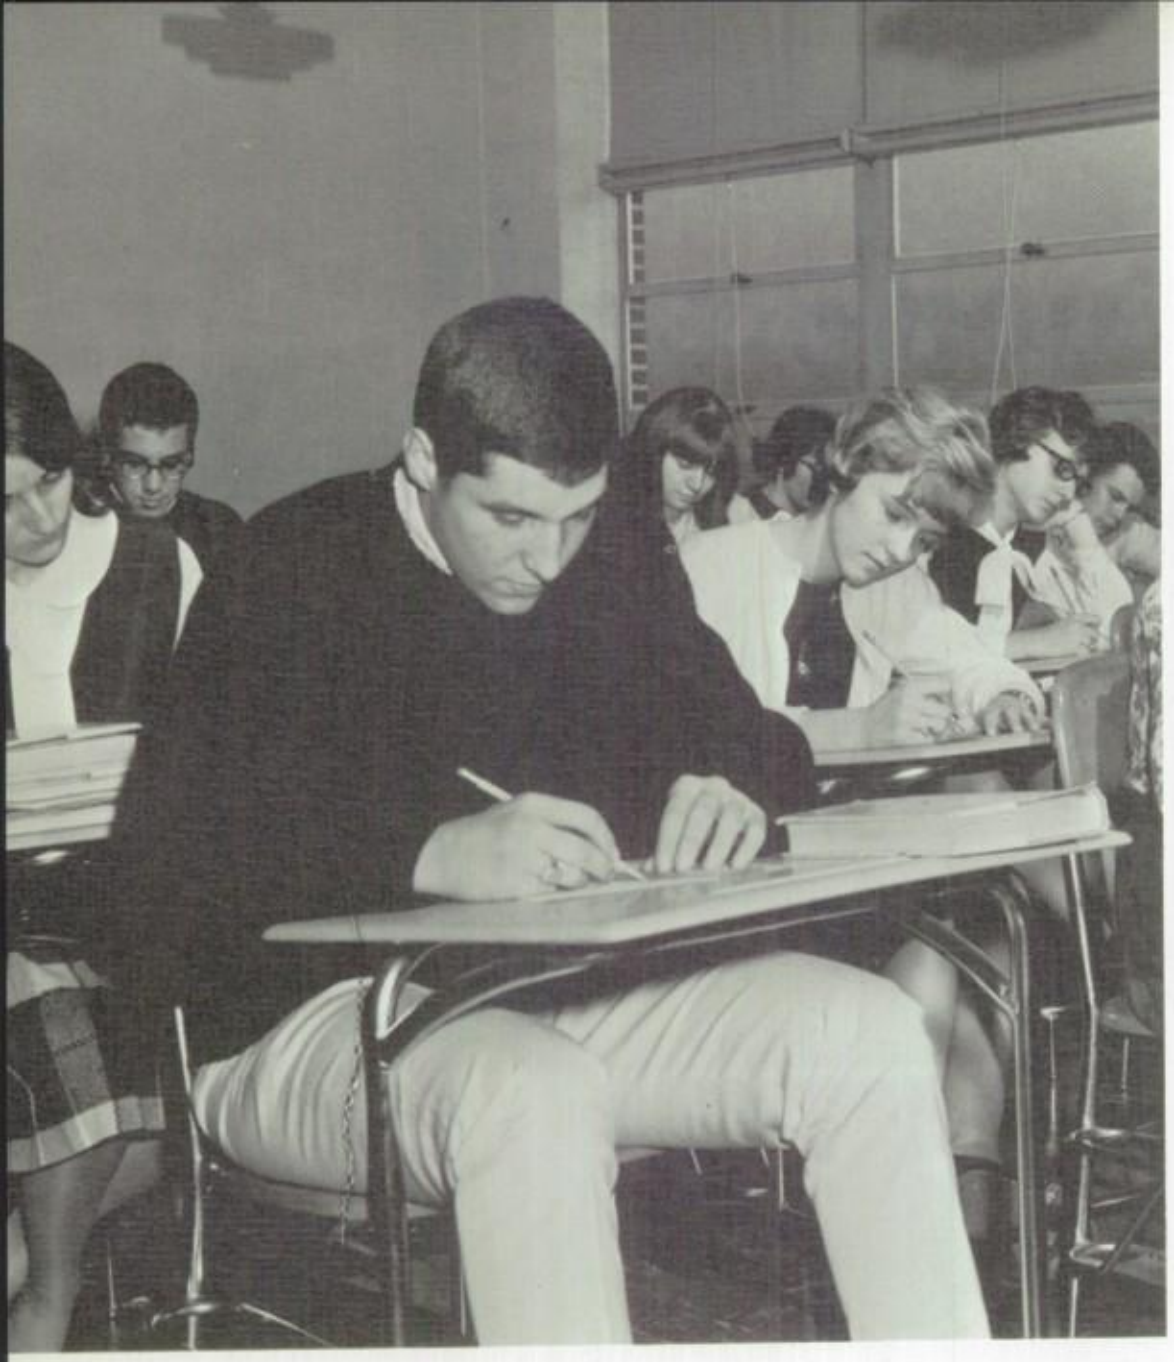
up, and all the other elements necessary for complete understanding of the surrounding neighbors.

Presidents tour foreign continents; missionaries explore remote islands. Throughout the world, people are constantly coming into contact with each other. What one factor is the way to their increasing harmony? Understanding and comprehension or why the people do what they do.



$E=mc^2$—This opened a whole new world of concepts for man. From this formula and others man has formed a door to carry him to the ends of the universe, he has calmed raging epidemics, and has strived for world peace. The Math Department of Bedford High School is giving its students the basis upon which to build a new math and to give them their chance to contribute to the progress of nations.

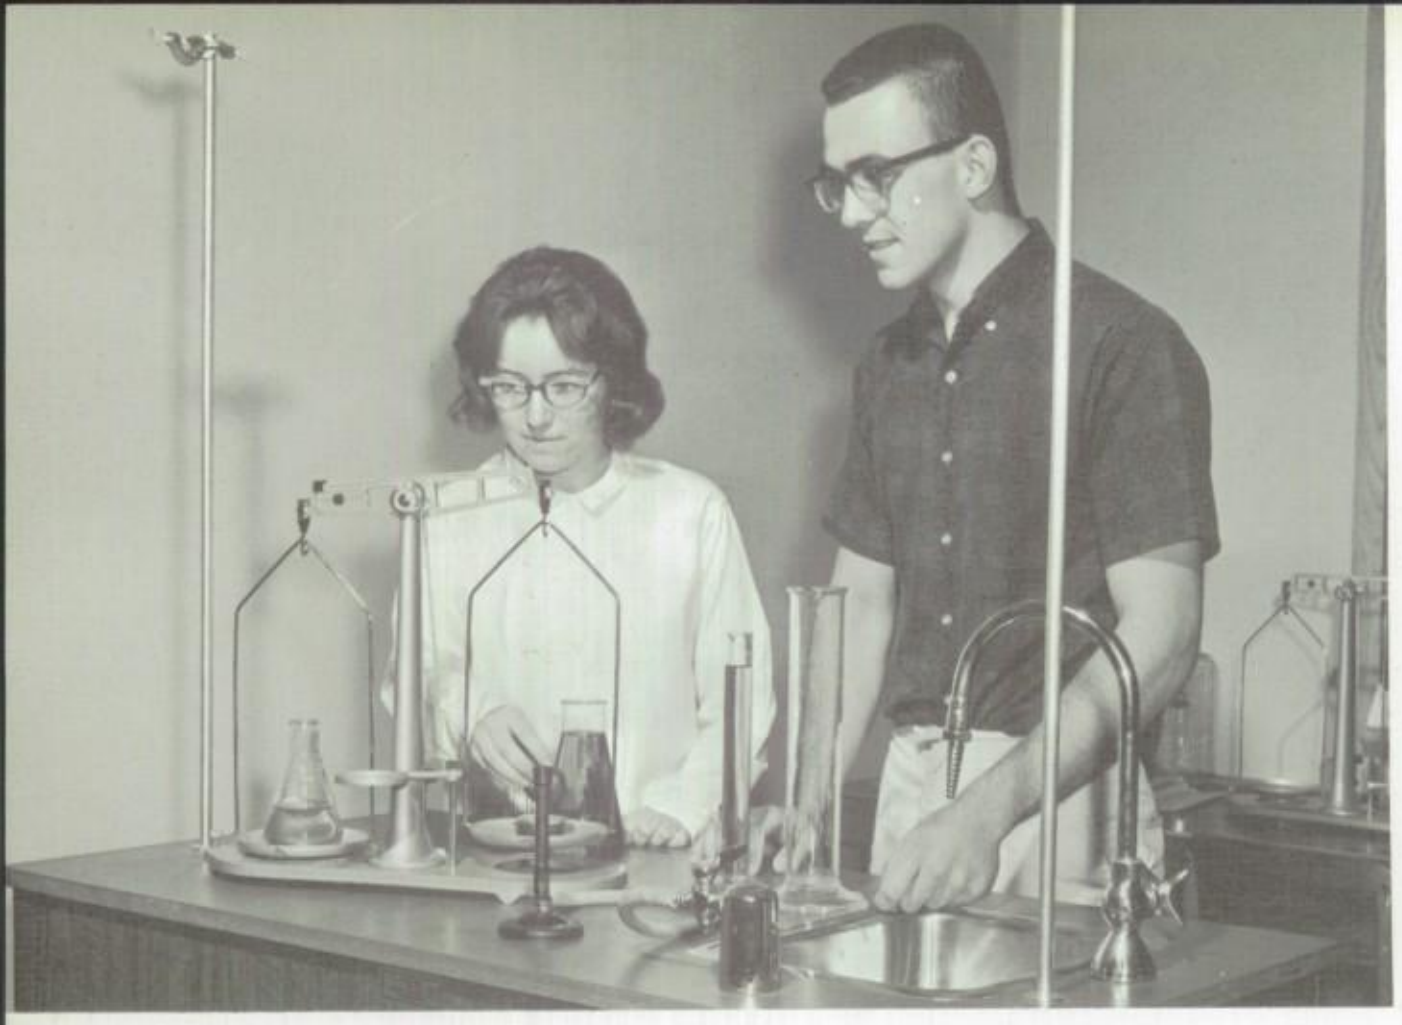
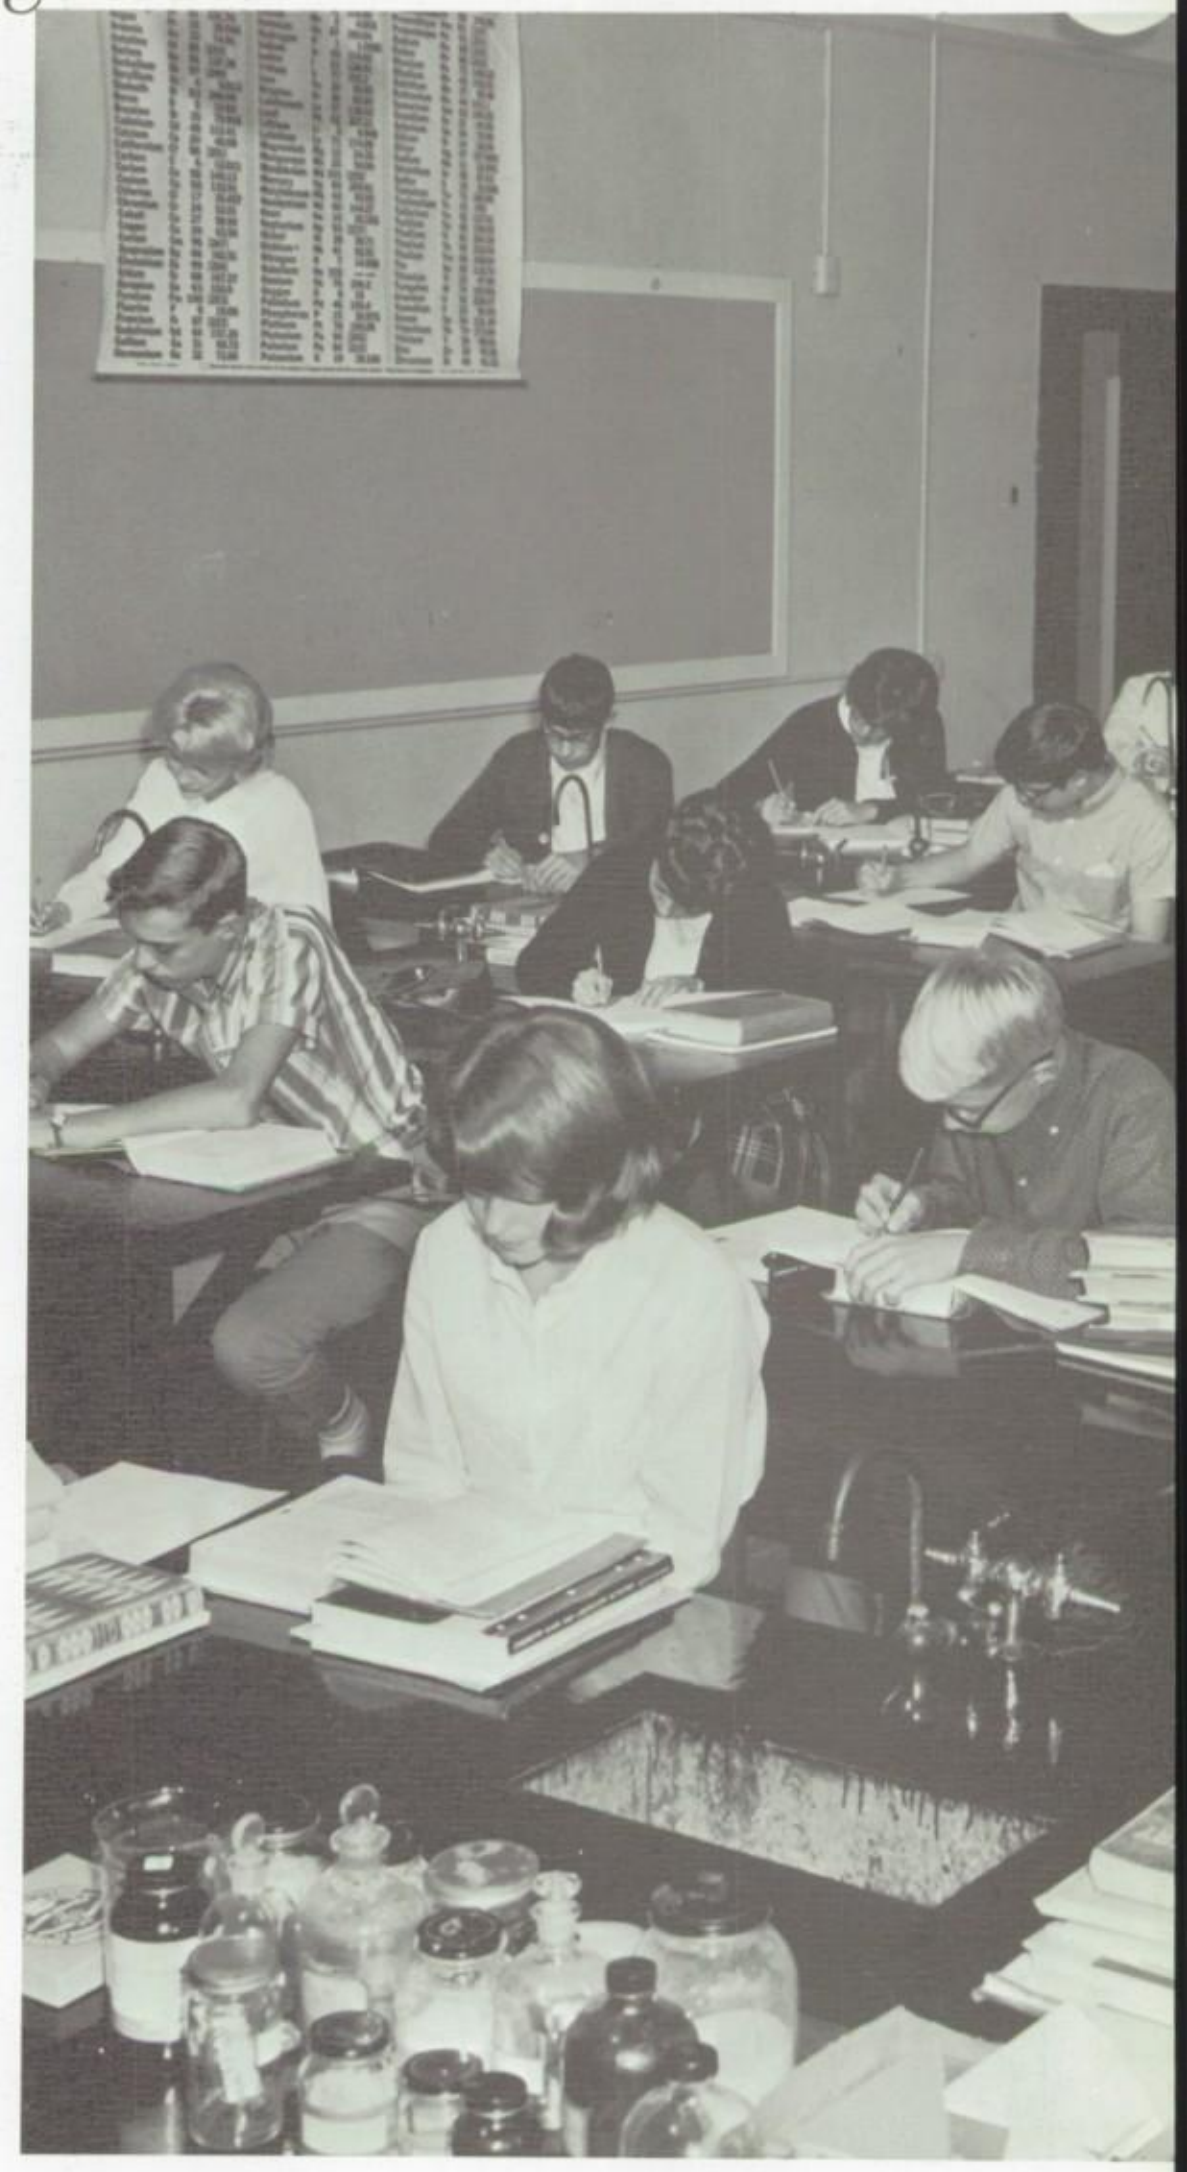
Science



courses meet new challenges

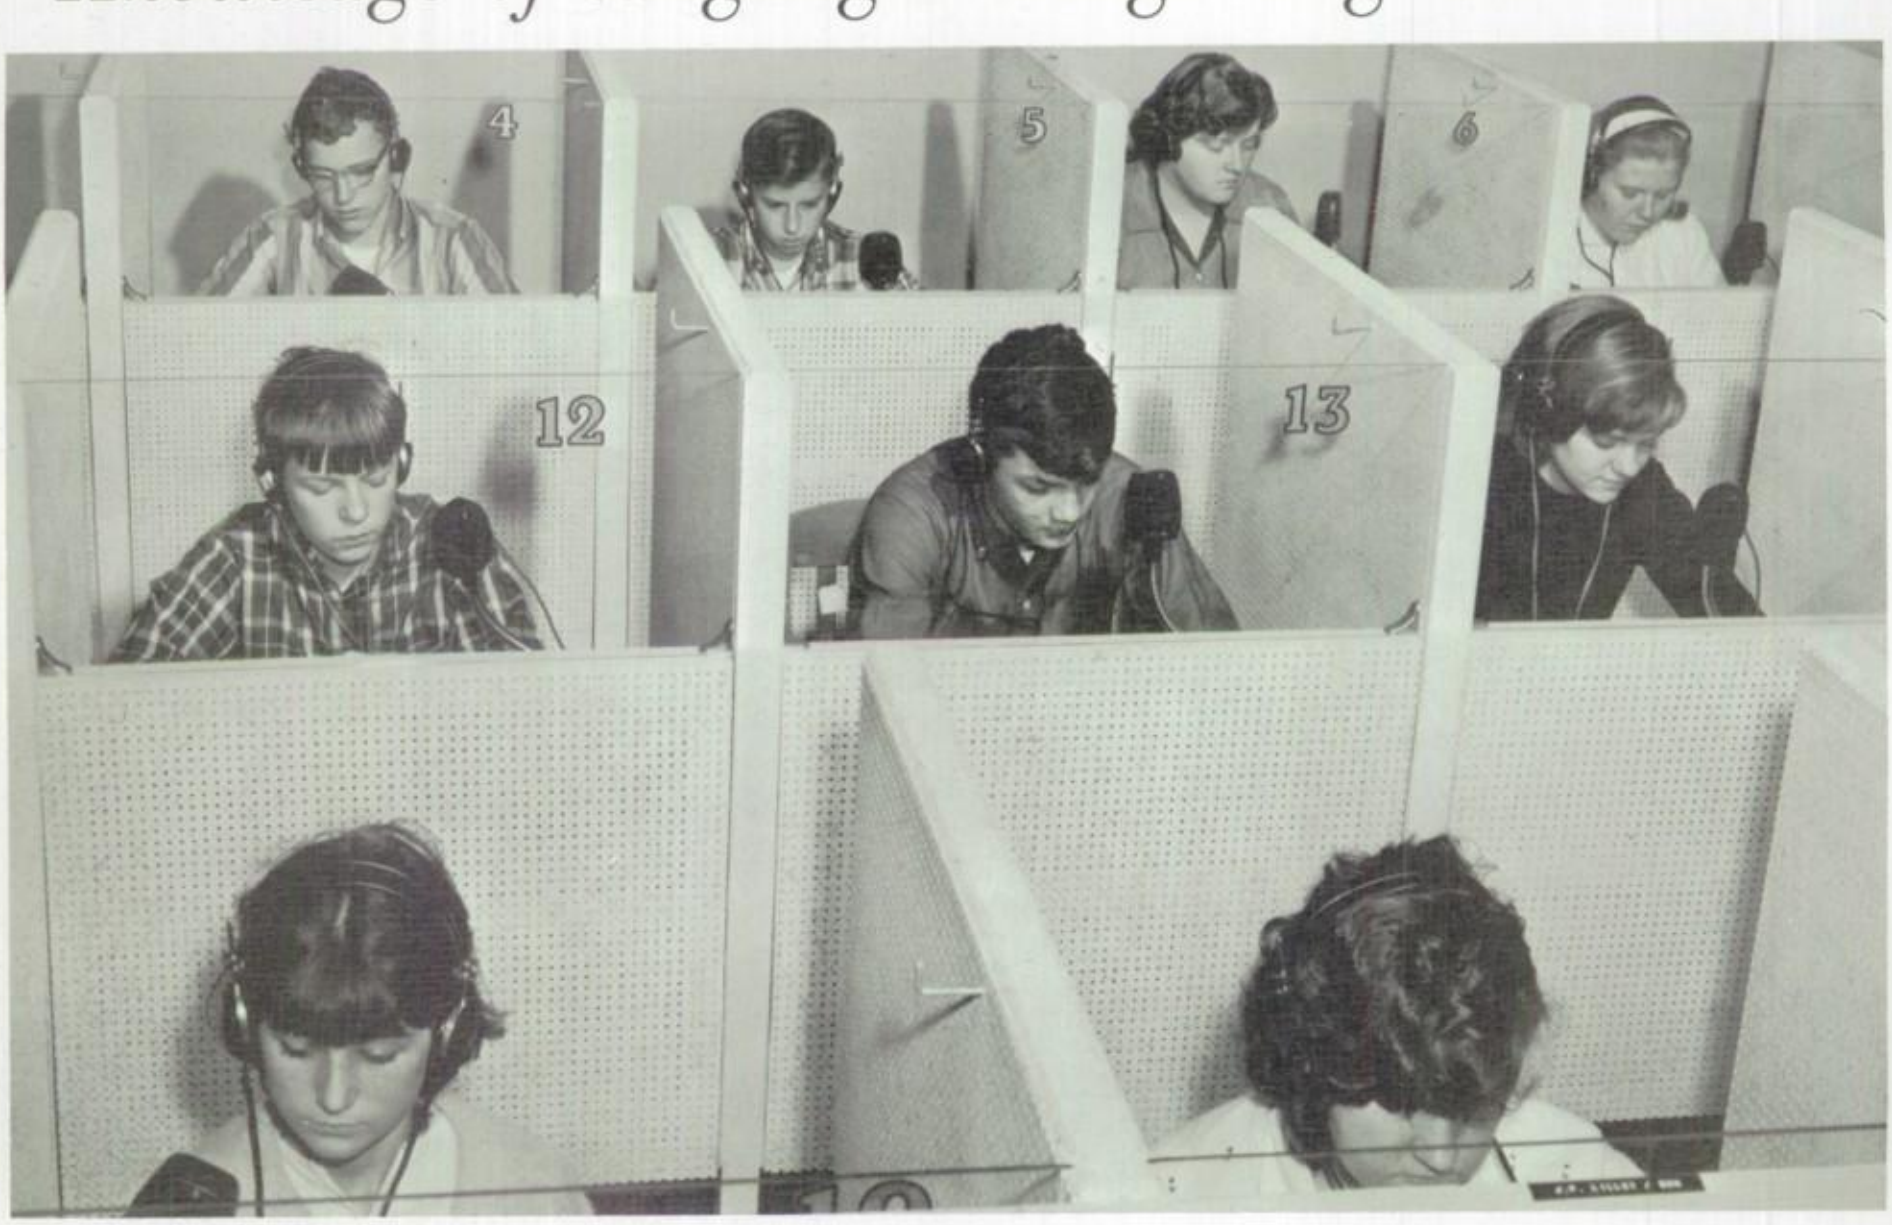
The world is knocking hard on a door. Beyond that door lie the answers to grave problems: a cure for cancer; an effective anti-missile; agricultural improvements; and advantageous uses of the atom, to name a few. The door is that of science, and the men searching for the answers are not only the great scientists of today, but also, each student who has ever had the curiosity to seek the answer to a question of science.

Bedford offers its students an opportunity to obtain a taste of each of the principal sciences: biology, chemistry, and physics. Through biology, students evolve a theory of the origin, development, structure, and functions of plants and animals; through chemistry, an understanding of the composition of substances; and through physics, a knowledge of the phenomena of matter and energy and the physical changes in matter. Through this study and the laboratory work which changes the printed facts to reality. Bedford's students can join in attempting to open the door.



One of the most important necessities for world harmony is a good communication system. And how can one communicate if he can neither speak nor understand? In our world today, as our neighbors become closer, the need for direct communications with our neighbors increases. Through French and Spanish, the two modern languages taught here, and Latin, the basis of most languages. Bedford teaches its pupils the fundamentals of foreign languages. They enable the student to comprehend the written and spoken words, and teach them to be able to use it in their daily lives, whether now, or in the future.

Knowledge of languages brings neighbors closer.



Commercial

To build the Commercial business leaders of tomorrow. That is the goal of the Commercial Department. From the first General Business course to the technical second year bookkeeping, our commercial teachers strive to instill in young minds the fundamentals to a basic knowledge of the business world, its processes, and its numerous forms.

It is the new frontiers which we are breaking into that keeps our country progressing, but it is the stolid businesses and their leaders with their knowledge of shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping that keeps it progressing smoothly and efficiently.

Art

The Art Department headed by Mr. Wohnhas encourages each student to enter the realm of creativity, both in the two-dimensional and three-dimensional categories. Every student in Art Class is asked to develop whatever talent or potential he has, be it great or small. A student who takes art in the senior high can achieve considerable technical proficiency over the three year period.

VOLUME 34, No. 2 Bedford, Pennsylvania NOVEMBER 23, 1965

YOUR CAR, YOU AND MR. GORDON

Have you ever gone out driving with our beloved driver education teacher, Mr. Gordon, and driven too far past a cross-walk, and he told you that you just killed the little old lady? Or did you ever forget to use your signal and have the car in back of you hitch a ride for two and a half miles?

These are a couple of the numerous peeves of our safety teacher. Of course, besides your having complete control of the car, he does, too. He has that one big pedal under his foot all the time. Using it comes as a big surprise especially to the observers in the back if they aren't paying the strictest attention. (Take it any way you want).

Mr. Gordon teaches you all kinds of garbage in class—stopping distances, depth perception, map making, book binding, and painting. From all this you may receive a morsel of knowledge, but you can find some way to waste most of the time in class without opening the books with the roads on the front.

Most of the things you learn about driving, you'll probably learn yourself. These things you learn will come from experiences—such as hitting a parked car the first day you have your license or trying to park your car on the front porch by driving through the shrubbery and up the steps, or being hit in the side by a ten ton truck.

These trivial little things can be irritating, not only to you, the driver, but also to your parents who

—EDITORIAL—

People express themselves in many ways—through art, music, speaking and writing. The last is often the way we share our thoughts with many people. In the Hi-Lites through writing we tell you about events and try to provide some entertainment. Writing is a lot of hard work for the staff, but we also have a lot of fun doing it. It's nice to get with a bunch of kids and try to come up with new ideas. We like it! However, our staff doesn't have a lot of newspaper training (actually we don't have any!). I think it would help a lot if we had a journalism class. Today when writing is so important this training would really be useful. If some of you are interested in this sort of thing, show your interest and maybe there will be such a class here soon.

—Eva Mason

Maybe just before you take the car to go someplace your mother says, "Be careful." "Sure, mom," you reply, knowing very well you are going to the drag races at Pleasantville tonight.

There is one great advantage to driving in snow—especially heavy snow. When you come in at 1 o'clock, and your mother is standing behind the door waiting for an explanation. "No, mother, we weren't parking. Honest we were stuck in a snow drift. Mother, you do believe me; you've got to believe me."

I am all out of good concluding paragraphs. So . . . put . . . put . . . put . . . crash!

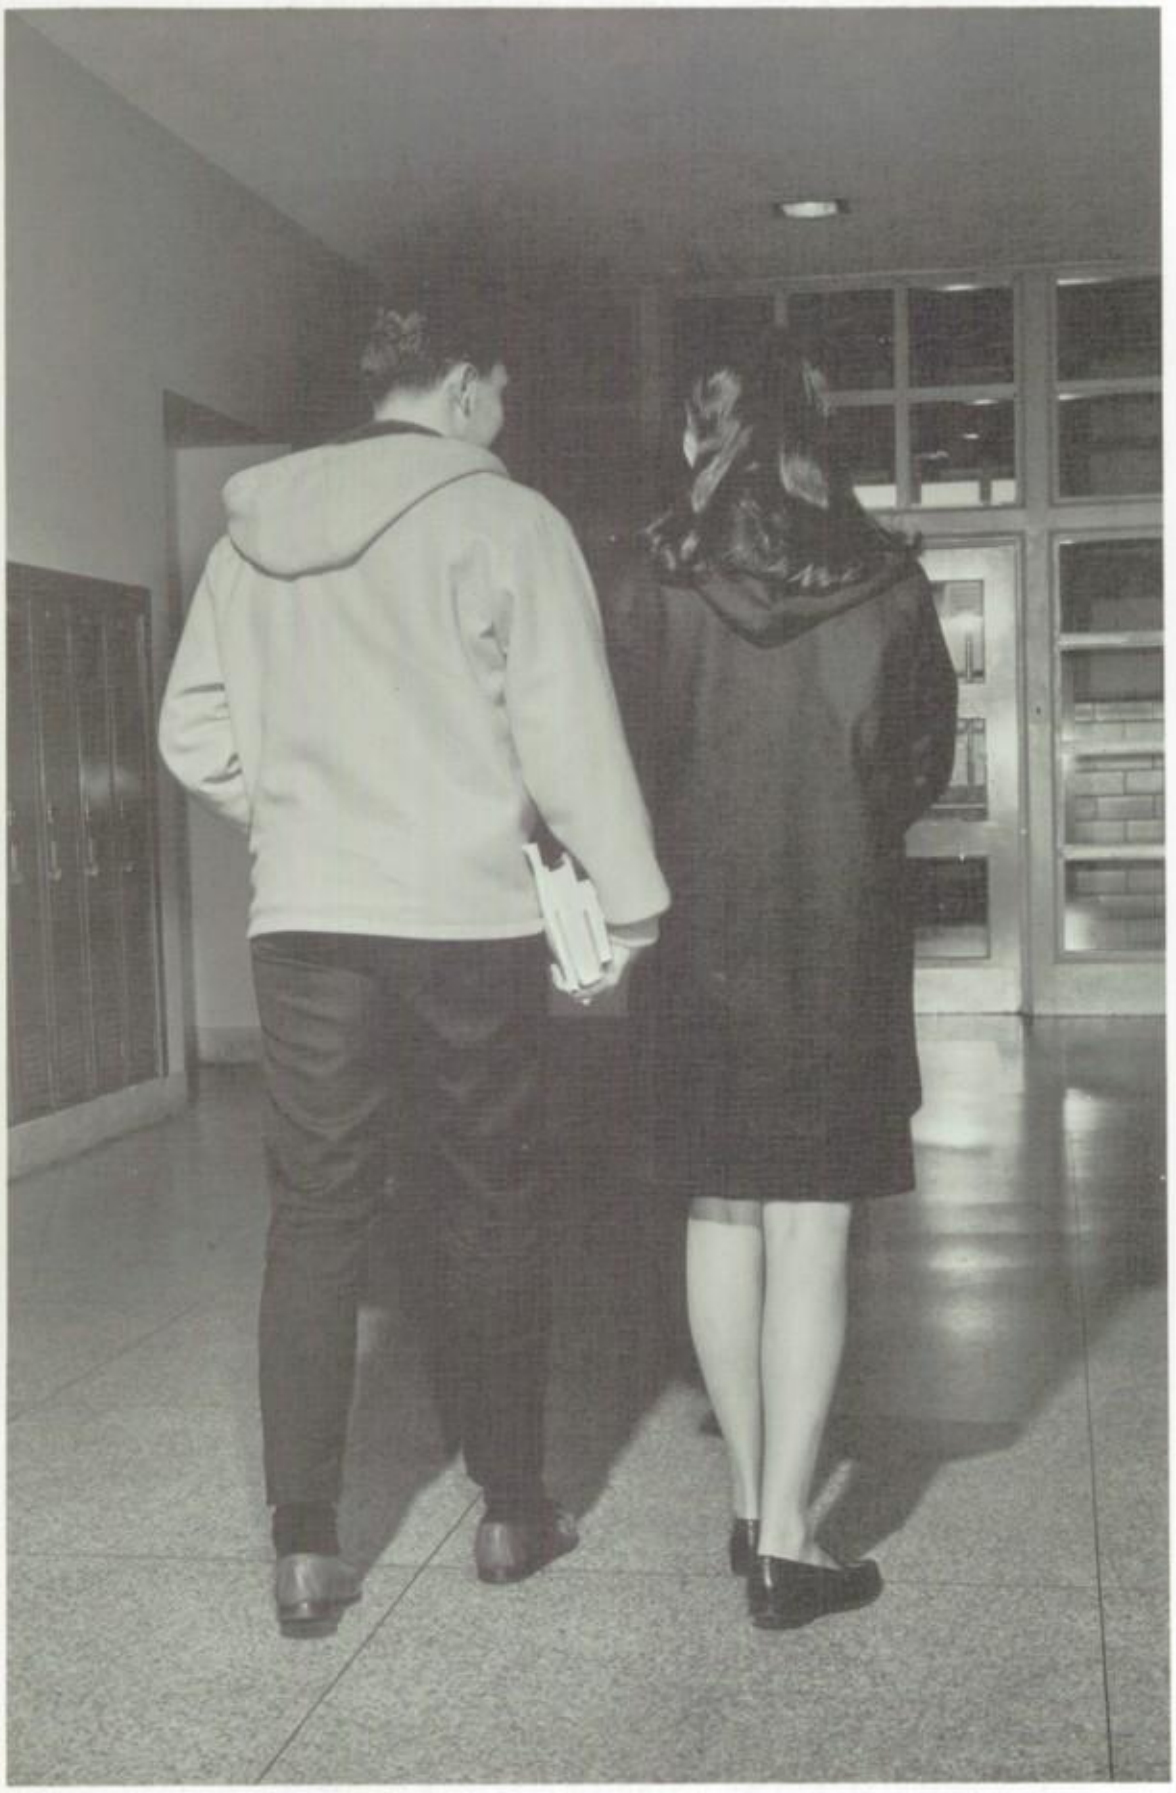
The End



As the 1965-66 school year draws to a close, there are many things each student holds as a dear memory of Bedford High School. Things have not always been as you wanted them to be, but all things have many times worked together for the good.

Now as you go your separate ways not knowing if happiness or sorrow will cross your path, hold the thoughts of your days spent at Bedford High as the happiest of your life. Turn to this rambling structure which houses the best of students and adults and simply say "Thanks for the memories."
